Shima Uta (Islands' song)

Okinawa has many islands.

It is located in the southern end of Japan.

During World War II,
it experienced the most severe battle among Japan.

This song is about the Sorrow of Okinawa.

Deigo no hana ga saki
Kaze wo yobi
Arashi ga kita

The beautiful Deigo flowers
Caused storms and winds.

Deigo ga sakimidare

Kaze wo yobi
Arashi ga kita

The beautiful Deigo flowers
Caused storms and winds.

Kurikaesu Kanashimi wa Shimawataru Nami no yo

Repeating sorrows are just like the waves
Crossing over the islands.

Uji no moride Anata to deai

Uji no shita de chiyo ni

Sayonara

I first met you in the forest of Uji.
I said good-bye in the same place...

Shimauta yo kaze ni nori
Tori to tomoni umi wo watatare

The island song, cross over the sea
With a bird

Shimauta yo kaze ni nori
Todoketeokure

Watashino namida

The island song, send my belated tears
Riding on the waves.

Dego no hana mo chiri
Sazanami ga yureru dake

Sasayaka na shiawase wa Utakatano namino hana

Uji no mori de Utatta tomo yo Ujino shita de
Yachiyo no wakare

Shimauta yo kaze ni nori
Tori to tomoni umi wo watatare

Shimauta yo kaze ni nori
Todoketeokure
Watashi no ai wo

A circular ring of water droplets, resembling a ring of fire or a celestial ring, set against a blue background with a bright light source. The ring is composed of many small, interconnected droplets, creating a shimmering, circular path. The background is a gradient of blue, with a bright, glowing area on the right side, suggesting a sun or a light source. The overall image has a dreamlike, ethereal quality.

The sea, the universe, the god and souls... give us the ever lasting peace...

Shimauta yo kaze ni nori
Tori to tomoni umi wo watare

Lalalalala lalalala.....

We would never forget
Any tragedies in the world.

Love and peace forever.
